On Finding 1: Failure to Report Crimes under the heading Non-Compliance, Case 091000 was identified in the CJIS Audit as being incorrectly classified. In the records maintained by UAPD the crime was classified as Rape. It should have been classified as Sexual Assault With An Object. This mistake has been corrected in our records. In the Annual Security Report both classifications would be listed under Sex Offenses - Forcible and Case 091000 is correctly listed there. In order to address the possibility of inaccurate classifications UAPD is instituting a structured review of case classifications. We are training an additional person to review the classification of cases.

On Finding 2: Daily Crime Log Incomplete under the heading Non-Compliance, the missing logs were entered during the review. In order to insure the log is updated within two business days a back-up person has been assigned and trained to complete the crime log updates when the primary person is unable to do so. In addition, three other measures are in place. First, a third person is tasked with monitoring the Daily Crime Log and completing a back-up copy on the server. Second, the Daily Crime Log is published on the police department web site where it can be monitored by Internet. Lastly, the primary person has remote access to the records so the log can be updated by Internet. These measures should ensure the updates are completed and compliance is maintained.

The University of Arkansas is committed to full compliance with the Clery Act. This response is based on the best information available from the Program Review Report, The Annual Clery Report and records maintained by the UAPD. We look forward to your next communication.
